WHITE SPACE

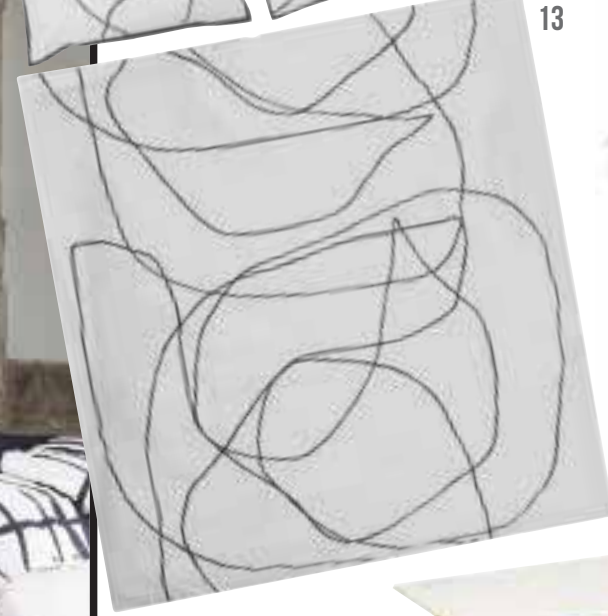

Nothing calms the mind and the home like the serene and pared-back white

Words: Róisín Healy

White walls are often the starting point in a space, but this season it goes further with white furniture and accessories for a minimal finished look. Far from clinical, white pieces married with a hint of metallic or simple wooden details can create a refreshingly simple look. While dark walls are all over Instagram and vibrant coral is allegedly the shade of the season, there seems to be a determined movement towards soothing clean lines and a muted palette. This desire for a haven of calm is no doubt a reaction to our overwhelmed senses, so embrace the visual serenity that comes with letting white shine.
